RG104 E-1 Box 159

Treasury Department,

BUREAU OF THE MINT.

Dictated

Washington, D. C., October 19, 1889. 188 .

L. R Cowperthwait,

U.S. Mint, Philadelphia.

Dear Mr. Cowperthwait:

Replying to your note of yesterday I would say that the change of Superintendent involves no settlements with the operative officers. The new Superintendent will receipt for the book balances in their hands. The old Superintendent should deliver all deposits in his possession to the Melter and Refiner before he turns the office over to Col. Bosbyshell, and the latter will take count only of the coin in the possession of the Superintendent. The change need not interfere in the slightest with the business of the mint, but of course will necessitate two sets of accounts this quarter.

Truly your friend,

E. O. Leech

Director.

NARA RG104, Entry 1, Box 159

Treasury Department,
Bureau of the Mint,
Washington, D.C.,
October 19, 1889

Dictated.

L.R. Cowperthwait,
U.S. Mint, Philadelphia.

Dear Mr. Cowperthwait:

Replying to your note of yesterday I would say that the change of Superintendent involves no settlements with the operative officers. The new Superintendent will receipt for the book balances in their hands. The old Superintendent should deliver all deposits in his possession to the Melter and Refiner before he turns the office over to Col. Bosbyshell, and the latter will take count only of the coin the possession of the Superintendent. The change need not interfere in the slightest with the business of the mint, but of course will necessitate two sets of accounts this quarter.

Truly your friend,
E.O. Leech
Director.